

City Acts to Force Cleanup of Lots, Houses

In a meeting last night Hope's Board of Directors set up laws to improve the looks of the city.

The Board approved three ordinances, one prohibiting the dumping of trash or refuse within the city limits and it set up a fine for violators.

Another provides for the condemnation and removal of houses, buildings or structures constituting a nuisance. If in a given length of time the house or structures are not torn down and removed the city will have it done. If the structure is of saleable value the city will sell to the highest bidder with money going into the city treasury. Owners who violate this ordinance are subject to fine.

The third ordinance requires premises to be kept free from weeds, grass, garbage, rubbish and other unsightly and unsanitary articles. If within 20 days after being notified owners of any lot or real property refuse or neglect to comply with provisions of the ordinance, then the city will have the work done and the cost thereof shall be charged against the owner and shall constitute a lien on the property.

In other action the group authorized the City Manager and Junior May to find a new site for dumping garbage; recommended a low bid by Rock Steel Bldg. Co., Little Rock, for construction of a city garage and warehouse at Fair park;

Named Mrs. Dorsey McRae Duckett to fill vacancy on the Cemetery Association Board; authorized the city manager to get bids for lease of farm land at Municipal Airport.

Mrs. Claudia Hunt, Dies Monday at the Age of 84

Mrs. Claudia Hunt, aged 84, a resident of Hempstead for over 60 years, died Monday in a local rest home. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include four sons, Percy of Corpus Christi, Texas; Charles of Dickinson, Texas; Stewart of Texarkana and Chester Hunt of Hope; six daughters, Mrs. Rob Jones, Mrs. Roy Mullins and Mrs. Garland Mullins of Hope; Mrs. John Goodwin of Texarkana, Calif.; Mrs. W. M. Sisson of Mt. Vernon, Washington and a sister, Mrs. Clark Goyne of Hope.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Herndon-Cornelius Chapel by the Rev. Raymond Clark and the Rev. Arlis Downs. Burial will be in Ayres Cemetery.

Suggests State Housecleaning

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. Virgil J. Butler of Independence County told a Little Rock civic club Monday night that Arkansas needs a top-to-bottom political house cleaning.

Reform should begin, Butler declared, with a new state constitution. Butler said public officials at all levels of government have fallen into "indifference, arrogance, insolence and sometimes downright defiance of their oaths of office."

Butler challenged Gov. Orval E. Faubus to make a public statement of his views on a new constitution. Faubus has indicated that he does not feel a new constitution is needed.

Underworld Sets Price on Informant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The underworld has set a price of $100,000 on the head of Joseph Valachi, the informant who gave officials their best information on the structure of the syndicate which dominates the crime picture in the United States, government sources said today.

"We're going to keep him alive," one source said. "We don't know exactly what we are going to do with him, but we're going to keep him in a safe place."

The syndicate—to which Valachi gave the name "Cosa Nostra" meaning "our thing"—has noised it around the underworld that the man who kills Valachi for breaking the syndicate's blood oath of silence, will be paid $100,000, informants said.

Meanwhile, it also was learned that the Valachi testimony—which he spilled during a year of questioning—has led to more breakthroughs in the government's quest for information about the syndicate.

Other weak spots in the syndicate's chain are being tapped for information. No only Valachi's cooperation, but also the Justice Department's increasing pressure on organized crime, is being credited here for a sudden increase in the number of talkative hoodlums.

Fairbanks Closing Stuttgart Plant

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP)—Fairbanks, More & Co. announced Monday that it would close its plant at Stuttgart.

The plant employs 113 people in the production of jet and submersible pumps for home water systems and for commercial and industrial applications.

Frank Hickey, vice president and general manager of the pump and hydraulic division at Kansas City, Kan., said the Stuttgart operations would be consolidated with those at Kansas City.

Hickey said closure of the Stuttgart plant should be complete by Sept. 30. Fairbanks Morse acquired it in 1928.

The closure was necessitated by continued losses, Hickey said.

Wants Gas Hike

LITTLE ROCK — Arkansas Western Gas Co. filed a proposal for rate increases in Fayetteville and surrounding areas with the state Public Service Commission Monday. He rates take effect Sept. 1 unless there is opposition. Western estimated the increase at 51 cents a month to residential users and $1.83 to commercial users.

Haitian Exiles Pull Invasion, Seize Key Port

By BERNARD DIEDERICH
SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A spokesman for Haitian rebels who invaded the north coast of Haiti said today that two columns of troops have surrounded Cap-Haitien, Haiti's second city.

He said the invaders have not captured the port city of 25,000, as was rumored in Santo Domingo this morning, but now command the Pahn du Nord in front of the city and much of the area around it.

The rebel forces, under the command of Gen. Leon Cantave, was reported composed of exiled Haitian soldiers.

They struck ashore Monday at Fort Liberté, 18 miles east of Cap-Haitien, with the aim of toppling the terrorist regime of dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier.

Duvalier, the voodoo-preaching physician turned strongman, acknowledged Monday night there was an invasion on Haiti's north coast.

The Dominican frontier forces and navy were alerted after news of the invasion and Haiti charged that some of the invaders came from adjoining Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Dominican President Juan Bosch conferred with his armed forces chiefs at the national palace.

The newspaper Listin Diario reported that a number of Haitian officials have crossed into the Dominican Republic seeking asylum. Some Haitian soldiers also

U.S. Ambush Fails to Draw N. Koreans

By CONRAD FINK
WITH U.S. 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea (AP) — A heavy American force set up ambush positions in the demilitarized zone Monday night and withdrew at dawn today without contacting any Communist North Korean troops.

The combat-ready Americans went into position at dusk Monday. They set up three traps for Communist patrols that have been striking into United Nations territory and on occasions launching strong attacks on U.S. units.

The exact number of American troops involved was classified. But the U.S. force is known to have been much larger than the small patrols that normally guard the U.S. sector of the 151-mile truce line established after the Korean War.

It is obvious that the U.S. command is determined to stop all North Korean movement—by large Red forces or small units—into what the 1953 armistice agreement termed U.N. territory.

Orders were given that the American force hold its fire until Communist troops moved in close. "We were to use grenades and bring back the meat," one sergeant said.

Armored personnel carriers moved to within a few thousand yards of the demilitarized zone and stood by in the event a fight developed.

The scene was about 13 miles east of Panmunjom near a road junction where two Americans were killed in a North Korean ambush July 29.

At long last, the City of Hope has taken steps to get rid of some mighty unfavorable scenes. Ordinances passed last night allow the City to order certain houses and structures to be torn down and removed and sets up laws instructing owners of vacant lots to keep grass and weeds cut, something that hasn't been done here for a long, long time. If the owner fails to cut vacant lots, the city will do it and take a lien against the property.

3 Held on 38c Robbery Charges

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Three Paragould men were bound over to Green Circuit Court Monday on charges growing out of a 38 cent robbery.

The three — Gary Underwood, Ralph Taylor and Ray Williams — pleaded innocent at a hearing before Municipal Judge L. V. Rhine. Rhine set bond at $2,000 each.

Sheriff Woodrow Davidson said the three attacked Early Rickman July 29 as Rickman was crossing a railroad track in west Paragould. Davidson said they took the change from Rickman's pockets and beat him.

Residents of the neighborhood saw the scuffle and called police. Davidson said officers found the three in a drainage ditch.

Major Trouble in China Is Now Evident

TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. State Department's publication of documents telling of unrest and near-revolt in Red China's army in 1960-61 confirms what the Chinese themselves have hinted—there was major trouble.

The documents also substantiate outside assessments of what the shakeups and changes of that time and earlier meant.

The beginning of the Red army disaffection dates from 1958, when party chairman Mao Tse-tung boss of Red China, launched a speeded up industrial and agricultural program to bring peasants into a vast network of rural communes.

Mao took the drastic step against the advice of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Marshal Peng Teh-huai, defense minister, recognized that Mao's dispute with Khrushchev could lead to withdrawal of Soviet help to the Chinese army. Peng opposed Mao's plan and was reported to have communicated his views to Khrushchev.

He was dismissed in September 1959 and his name has not been mentioned by the Chinese since.

Gen. Huang Ko-cheng, Peng's army chief of staff, was fired at the same time. His disgrace was completed in September 1962 when he was fired from the secretariat of the Communist party Central Committee along with Gen. Tan Cheng, head of the army's chief political department.

Khrushchev is said to have attacked the Chinese leaders sharply in 1960 for dropping Peng. From that time on, the Chinese now have disclosed, Soviet aid to China stopped.

U.S. Can Object to E. Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — Worried West Germans are being told the U.S. government has the right to object to seating the East German Communist regime at any conference arising out of the atomic test ban treaty.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to make a point of this at Senate hearings due to start Monday on ratification of the treaty.

West German officials say their government has not yet decided to sign.

The reason given is fear that the East German Red regime will sign up and try to use the signature to gain new status in the family of nations. Now, it is recognized only by other Communist governments.

Questions and answers on the future status of the East German Reds have been going back and forth between Washington and Bonn at a rapid rate.

The West Germans are more concerned about the prestige the East German regime might win from the consequences of the treaty, than from the treaty itself.

Under it, one third of the governments signing can call a conference to amend it.

West German officials fear that their claim to represent the whole German people, recognized by the Western powers, will be jeopardized if they have to sit down at the same conference table with representatives of the rival regime.

The launching was announced by Moscow Radio. It said this was No. 19 in the series of satellites which began going up in March 1962.

Goldwater Says Chew Democrats

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater called on Republicans today to "stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats."

That was the Arizona Republican's reply to the action of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on Monday in sidestepping an Albany news conference question on whether he will back Goldwater for president if the latter becomes the 1964 GOP nominee.

All Rockefeller would say was: "We've got a long way to go." The governor also raised again the issue of whether Goldwater is a "captive of the radical right."

Asked about this in an interview, Goldwater said he is getting tired of Republicans knocking other Republicans. He said that's just what the Democrats want them to do.

"It's time for us Republicans to stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats," he said. "The Democrats are better fed now that they are in power and they are getting soft. We ought to get our teeth into them."

Asked if he will support Rockefeller if the New York governor becomes the 1964 nominee, Goldwater said: "He hasn't even announced that he is available." He added that he wants to wait and see what happens.

"I have a habit of supporting Republican presidential nominees unless they are personally obnoxious to me, and that hasn't happened in a long time," Goldwater said.

Could Rockefeller be classified as personally obnoxious to him? No, the senator didn't think so. Goldwater, asked if he is a captive of the radical right, replied: "I'm not the captive of anyone."

Searcy Man Is Charged by FBI

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the FBI office at Little Rock, said Monday that Wilford L. Goodwin, 28, of Searcy, was arrested at Searcy Monday on charges of receiving, concealing, storing, harboring and disposing of two stolen automobiles.

Moore said Goodwin would be arraigned today before U.S. Commissioner John E. Coates in Little Rock.

Goodwin is charged with receiving two cars stolen in St. Louis and selling one on July 30, 1962, and the other on June 27, 1962, Moore said.

The agent said Goodwin operated an automobile body shop at Kensett.

Ways to Ease West, East Tension Aired

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union today began exploring possibilities for lowering East-West tensions in the wake of their nuclear test ban treaty.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk led the American delegation to the conference in the Soviet Foreign Office with Lord Home, British foreign secretary, and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union.

The American and British delegations had conferred on what might be developed on such subjects as nonaggression pledges, prevention of surprise attack, de-nuclearized zones and the perennial German problem.

Rusk was accompanied to the conference by Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations; William C. Foster, director of the American Disarmament Agency; Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, and Charles Stelle, U.S. representative to the Geneva disarmament conference.

The conference was to continue through lunch at the official reception house in the Lenin Hills, the building where Chinese and Soviet delegates held their abortive meetings last month on the Peking-Moscow ideological dispute.

Members of the U.S. Senate delegation who accompanied Rusk to Moscow were guests today of Soviet parliamentary leaders in the Kremlin. They will return to Washington Wednesday.

The test ban treaty—pledging to abstain from nuclear weapon tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water — was signed by the foreign ministers Monday. Soviet Premier Khrushchev called it the "first sprouts of international confidence" and said his government "would do everything in its power for these sprouts to develop and gain in strength."

Rusk and Lord Home made similar pledges but neither laid any special emphasis on particular East-West issues remaining to be settled.

Khrushchev, however, repeated his call for an East-West nonaggression pact "to show" all the peoples that the militarily most powerful states...have reached agreement among themselves with the aim of evading thermo-nuclear war."

Khrushchev was expected to leave Moscow today for a Black Sea vacation. He has invited Rusk to visit his seaside dacha and the U.S. secretary will probably fly down to Gagra, on the Soviet Riviera, on Thursday.

One Returned on Kidnap Charge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Richard Tyler Lane, 31, of Reno, Nev., was returned to Little Rock Monday from Sacramento, Calif., to face kidnapping charges.

Lane, James Burton Ing, 42, of Reno, and Lane's wife, Cecile Mae, 26, are charged in the April 23 abduction of William O. Bonds, 56, a Little Rock hospital clerk.

Three persons attempted to extort from Bonds the hospital room number of James Dean Walker, 22, of Reno, who was recovering from bullet wounds received in a gun battle with North Little Rock policeman Jerrell Vaughan. Vaughan was killed.

Lane was arrested April 28 in Sacramento and lost his fight against extradition to Arkansas. He was held in Pulaski County Jail in Little Rock.

Mrs. Lane surrendered July 16 to Nevada authorities. Ing has been sentenced to five years in prison for burglary and assault with intent to kill.

Guards in Mock Believe War

FT. POLK, La. (AP) — Arkansas and Louisiana National Guardsmen made war Monday on a make-believe enemy near Lake Charles.

The 8,000 men of the 39th Infantry Division are trying to win back Lake Charles, which is occupied by aggressive forces that invaded the United States from the south.

The two-day paper war with staff officers on three levels—division, brigade and battalion—is called "Lark."

Division troops have moved into the field for a five-day period as part of the exercise. They return to barracks Friday to get ready to return home Saturday.

More Court Action Likely in Ward Case

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON (AP)—More court actions appear in prospect in the wake of the vice trial and suicide of Dr. Stephen Ward, who believed he was the scapegoat of Britain's sex and security scandal.

Before swallowing the haribyrates that snuffed out his life Saturday after an 80-hour coma, Ward wrote in one of many suicide notes, "The ritual sacrifice is demanded and I cannot stand it."

Leading lawyers and legislators voiced concern over several aspects of the trial in which Ward, 50, was cleared of three vice charges and found guilty of two others—living off the earnings of prostitutes Christine Keeler and Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies.

Legal experts said they expect action against at least two prosecution witnesses. Call girls Vicki Barrett and Ronna Ricardo admitted in court they lied under oath.

Public sympathy grew with reports of Ward's death—alone except for a prison warden, his brother and hospital staff and deserted by his so-called friends in high places.

Many felt the osteopath was made a scapegoat for introducing former War Minister John Profumo to Miss Keeler, who at the same time was seeing an assistant Soviet naval attaché.

Their triangular relationship touched off the scandal that threatened to topple Prime Minister Macmillan's government. Profumo resigned in disgrace.

Silent on Support to Goldwater

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller declined today to say whether he would support Barry Goldwater for president if the Arizona senator won the Republican nomination next year.

"We've got a long way to go," said Rockefeller, sidestepping the question at a news conference.

Medical Center Is Picketed

NEW YORK (AP)—Civil rights demonstrators continued to picket at the Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn today. But there were none of the mass arrests and flashes of violence which marked last week's demonstrations.

Four adults had been arrested and three children taken away by police through more than four hours. The number of pickets was increasing.

Officials of the Brooklyn Coordinating Committee for Equal Opportunity, which is demanding more publicly financed construction jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans, used a three-bus shuttle between the site and the Bedford-

Stuyvesant section to bring in more pickets.

Pickets were using delaying tactics instead of refusing to yield to police requests to clear the entrances to the site.

They were blocking the entrances, but after one or two requests to move, would get up, shuffle around, drop papers or books, and delay trucks for about five minutes before moving off.

Gasoline Prices Up Cent in State

Hope, Arkansas
Dear Sir,

"On a recent trip from Texas, Mr. Wulfman was forced to stop in your city because of trailer trouble. He was completely overwhelmed by the generous assistance extended to him, and his fellow travelers, by several of your citizens and feels the name of your city is very significant."

"Attached are copies of thank you letters written by Mr. Wulfman. If you wish to use these in your paper as a human interest article, feel free to do so as Hope, Arkansas left quite an impression on Mr. Wulfman."

Yours truly,

Hope, Arkansas
Dear Mr. Reeves,

"Just a note to thank you and your son for your splendid attitude in helping us out at the time of day when most people do not want to be bothered. The floor held up just fine with no problems. You might be interested in knowing that it has now been replaced with a one inch thick Oak floor."

Thanks again for your help.
Sincerely,
Huntingburg Furniture Co., Inc.

Mr. Travis Ward
Hope, Arkansas
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Ward & Ford,

"I can not tell you how appreciative I am of the kindness and help you extended to a fellow horse lover in trouble. Our two day trip was uneventful and we made it into Huntingburg with no problems. I do not believe you realized how hot, tired, dirty, and troubled we were when we reached Hope, with a couple bad tires, no lights on the trailer and only able to drive 50 miles an hour. The chance meeting of Ford, who was able to guide us to a good tire shop, boarding the horses that night, and convincing your neighbor, the carpenter, to fix the floor in the trailer that evening, was more than one could hope for. Now I understand where Hope, Arkansas got its name!"

"Thanks very much for everything and we certainly enjoyed seeing your fine horses."
Sincerely,
Huntingburg Furniture Co., Inc.

By "BILL"

Today we would like to present to you... "A Sobering Thought." The author is unknown, but we think you will like it.

"Sometime, when you're feeling important, Sometime, when your ego's in bloom, Sometime, when you take it for granted, You're the best qualified in the room, Sometime when you feel that your going would leave an unfillable hole, Just follow this simple instruction And see how it humbles your soul. Take a bucket and fill it with water, Put your hand in it, up to the wrist, Pull it out, and the hole that's remaining Is a measure of how you'll be missed, You may splash all you please as you enter, You can stir up the water galore, But stop, and you'll find in a minute, That it looks quite the same as before, The moral of this quaint example Is... do just the best that you can, Be proud of yourself, but remember, There is no indispensable man."

If you want to be proud of yourself right this minute, we suggest you see our new fall collection of Bianca knits. The lines are close to the body, yet softly straight and lean; the colors are vividly new; one and two piece styles.

Whether you have a train, plane or ship ticket in hand, or if you are just staying home, you will be a happier person in a knit. Try one on and see for yourself. Sizes from 8 to 20 and all in between. Priced from $39.95 up.

Ricki Junior Knits from $29.95 up. See the newest first... at Raley's Style Shoppe. Thanks to you, their customers, they are beginning their 4th year of business at 523 West 3rd.

Suggestions for names to give a boy, a girl, or twins were written by each of the 23 guests present. Mrs. Samuels received many nice gifts to be used by or for the new arrival.

For refreshments a dessert plate was served with punch.

Morning Party Honors

Miss Joan Willis
Miss Joan Willis, bride-elect of Charles G. Graham, was honored with a morning party Saturday, August 3 in the home of Mrs. Byron Hefner with Mrs. Bonnie Edwards, Mrs. Thell Joplin, Mrs. Mike Kelly, Mrs. Lyle Brown, and Mrs. Thompson Evans, Jr. co-hostesses.

Mrs. Evans greeted the guests at the door and introduced the receiving line consisting of the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Elston Willis, Mrs. C. G. Graham, Jr., mother of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Hefner. Miss Willis pinned a corsage of yellow roses to the shoulder of her blue dress.

Seasonal flowers seen throughout the home included zinnias, caladium leaves, and tube roses. The serving table was centered with caladium leaves and miniature crabapple blossoms. Coffee, cold drinks, and an assortment of dainty tidbits were served by Mrs. G. A. Hobbs and Mrs. W. C. Swicgood of Gordon, aunt of the future bridegroom.

Assisting in serving were Miss Poleda Glanton, cousin of the bride-elect, and Miss Cissy Ellis. Mrs. Jerry Owen had charge of the guest book. Approximately 100 called during the appointed hours.

Douglas' Ex-Wife to Wed Today

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Mercedes Douglas plan to marry today—The day after her former husband, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, married a girl 41 years his junior.

Mrs. Douglas divorced him six days ago.

Monday—as her husband's marriage to a 23-year-old government girl was making headlines—Mercedes Douglas came up with some news of her own: At 6 p.m. today, at the home of a friend, she would marry Robert B. Eichholz, 52, a Washington attorney.

Mrs. Douglas is 46.

Their sudden marriage plans came as a surprise to many—as did the marriage of the towering, white-thatched justice to a secretary whom he first met when she was a college coed.

The former Jason Carol Martin and Douglas were united in a church ceremony at Buffalo, N.Y.

Plan for Blind in Second Year

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Don W. Russell, director of the state Rehabilitation Service, said Monday that the Vending Stand Program for the Blind entered its 12th year in Arkansas on July 1 showing a gross profit for the last fiscal year of $92,618.

He said the net profit at a record high of 58 locations was $260,731 to operators in salaries and commissions—an increase of $67,731 for the year ended June 30.

DOROTHY DIX

IT DEPENDS UPON WHAT HE WANTS

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Is it ever possible to really start life over again? I am a reformed drunkard whose wife left him after seven years of marriage. That was two years ago.

I've had to care for our three little children. She loves another man and won't have anything to do with me. I need her and so do the kids. The eldest is seven, the middle girl six, and the small one just four.

It's been kind of hard what with working and finding somebody to care for them. What should I do, try to get my wife back or get a divorce? — On The Fence.

Dear On The Fence: How much damage did you cause your wife? How sure are you that you can stay on the wagon? How willing are you to make amends, not by crawling at her feet, but by standing tall and being the man, the husband, the father she hoped to share her life with? Then ask yourself a surgical question? Do you want a wife or a housemother?

Of course it is possible to start life over again. If it weren't, life wouldn't be worth the struggle. You undoubtedly left a lot of scars on your wife's soul during your drinking years and your own scars evidently throb.

If it was a deeply hurtful experience for her, she may not have a shred of love for you left in her heart. Marriage is like a new tire. It can take some very hard jolts from banging into the curbs and thudding into pot-holes when the tread is thick and the walls strong, but after repeated start inventing: A wise girl learns this early and is careful to give them nothing to talk of.

Dear Helen: My fiancé is so insanely jealous that he can't see straight. If I so much as say "Hi" to old boy friends, or mention their names, he hits the ceiling. He rages even when I talk to my own cousin. I'm worried sick because we are to be married this month. If it's bad now what will it be later on? How can I allay his jealousy and doubts about me and my past? Help if you can for we love each other very much. — Worried.

Dear Worried: You have cause to worry. There is no substitute for mutual trust in any marriage. Unreasonable jealousy such as your fiancé gives way to, implies lack of trust. He is acting like a child not an adult—and a pretty spoiled child at that. Tell him if he is ever to grow up, he simply must not try to own another being, in the name of love. Remind him that jealousy is a tiresome, irritating and destructive emotion, a stinging blue bottle fly. Swat this pest before it's too late. Make it clear to your fiancé that unless he learns to control his corrosive emotion, you'll call off the marriage. If this doesn't bring him to his senses, nothing else will.

But truth is stronger than gossip and will prevail. You have done nothing to be ashamed of, so let the silly lies evaporate. Your parents are protecting you against further harm, not punishing you. Talk it over with them soon, and never lose your poise in the face of idle gossip which you know to be false. Hold your head up, be your self, and laugh at those who tell the tales. Adolescent boys like to brag about their exploits with girls but rarely have any exploits to brag about. That's when they leaders and white sympathizers gather today for a strategy conference designed to assure passage of civil rights legislation.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People called the three-day meeting of several hundred persons from around the country to:

1. Enable them to meet with their members of Congress and stress their desire for "meaningful civil rights legislation."

2. Plan "continuous grass roots activity" in the states to build popular sentiment for the legislation and convey this sentiment to Congress.

Among those listed to speak at the sessions were several Congress members and churchmen of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

The sessions are distinct from the big "march for jobs and freedom" which six civil rights organizations, including the NAACP, are planning for Aug. 28. In this demonstration, an estimated 100,000 to 250,000 Negroes and Whites are to gather near the Washington Monument and march to the Lincoln Memorial, a half mile away, for exercises and speeches.

Discussing this march Monday, Dr. Walter Fauntroy, Washington coordinator of the demonstration, indicated that if Congress should decide to take a long Labor Day recess and thus be out of town Aug. 28, the demonstration would be postponed. But the director of information for the march, Sy Posner, said in New York: "The march will be held rain or shine on the 28th whether Congress is in session or not."

There had been some indications that Congress might be in recess, but latest signs are that it will be here Aug. 28.

Power Cut Off to Two Towns

WILSON, Ark. (AP)—A wooden cross arm on an H-frame structure carrying a 115,000-volt Arkansas Power & Light Co. transmission line broke Monday, cutting off power to Wilson and Osceola for several hours.

An A. P. L. line crew from Marked Tree replaced the arm, breaking a short circuit to the ground and restoring power at 5:24 p.m. Monday. The pole is located about six miles north of Wilson.

A company spokesman said a peculiar load at the time of the break, shortly after 1 p.m., prevented the utilization of the alternate source of power normally used in the area.

21 Arrested at Pine Bluff Stand

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—A white woman and 21 Negroes were arrested Monday night during a stand-in demonstration at McDonald's Hamburger Stand at Pine Bluff.

Asst. Police Chief William Howard said Robert Knight, owner of the stand, asked the group to leave and they would not.

Police loaded 13 of the demonstrators into patrol wagon and nine others were removed in two police cars. They were held under $1,500 paper bonds, or $500 cash bonds.

The arrests brought to 57 the number arrested at Pine Bluff in the past week.

The woman identified herself as Carleen Jones, 25, of St. Louis, Mo. Police said her real name was Carleen Gale Oehler.

Bill Hansen, 23, a white field representative of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, said the Pine Bluff Movement, an anti-segregation group, knew nothing about the white woman. He said she was not affiliated with the Movement.

BANCROFT'S BANCO

BY NELSON C. NYE

THE STORY: Bancroft Benson, a geologist, sees a chance to get land on the Rio Grande river. If the river changes course it will create a "banco," which will enlarge holdings on one side of the stream at the expense of the land owner on the other side. He chooses a partner, Shirl Dorrus, who owns land on the American side to help him in his plot.

"You come in on my terms or don't come in."

"I'll glared, incensed. 'If we're partners,' he whined, 'we ought to be partners straight across the board!'"

"Take it or leave it."

A child could have seen he didn't much like it, and it was plain enough he didn't like me. But I held out cards and he was shrewd enough to know this. The stumps of his teeth went to work on his cud while those pale suspicious eyes through his seething suspicions continued, greed driven, to stick and to pry.

Still scowling, he nodded. "All right, sport, I'll take it."

We set off for the county seat in his buckboard.

Through the first 20 miles he never opened his mouth except to get rid of the juice from his chew. He had reckoned to go on the back of a horse but, in addition to wanting him where I could see him, I'd stood out for the wheels to let him know who was boss. It hadn't set well with him; he was still champing on it, along with the rest of the things he didn't like. Even when we stopped to blow the team he stayed hunched in sullen silence. I made no attempt to josh him out of it.

He did some more staring and, abruptly, snorted. "How you reckon to git that perfection?"

"Why, there is nothing very difficult about it."

"Goin' to trot it around so I can watch the way its feet lifts?"

There's something recklessly imprudent or brashly conceited about the way most of us deal with other people, taking them for granted, scarcely more than half seeing them. When I'd been scouting this proposition, considering the situation from those hills off yonder through a collapsible Army telescope, I had seen the old don and his high chimed daughter any number of times. Yet just into my head hadn't ever occurred to me.

I got to wondering why it hadn't. The girl was not homely. Though a bachelor from choice, I had a good opinion of my abilities with women not to feel any great concern with regard to the probable outcome. Nor would I be burdened, proceeding toward my goal through means of wedlock, with the necessity of sharing my coveted plum. In the fullness of time I'd have all of Villalobos, chattels, cattle—everything. And I'd not have to rub elbows with a swine like Shirl Dorrus. I couldn't think why the idea was repugnant. It wasn't a thought I'd be chained to the woman.

"I'm still listenin'," he said, thumbs hooked into the dark skin of his belt.

Breaking away from my thoughts I peered a long time at him.

"Well, the first step, of course — we'll have to go see a lawyer. Get papers drawn up and signed."

"Why couldn't I just give you use of the place?"

"Whatever's worth doing is worth doing right. It was the things in my head I was seeing, not him. 'You couldn't afford to have me backing out later. A binding agreement with the place changing hands for $1 and other valuable considerations—a transaction we can publicize. The property has got to be signed over."

"You think I'm an idiot!" Dorrus shouted.

Outrage palely quivered in his stare. Anger fought with greed and lost. Distrust came out of him like a smell.

"You're not willing," I said, "to relinquish this worn-out hog run for half?"

"You didn't need me you wouldn't be here!"

"The fact is self evident."

"Then don't ask like I'm dirt under your boots!"

I stared at him, astonished. This ignorant back country brush-popping bravo appeared to have needs I hadn't considered. He aspired to dignity! The poor slob wanted to be treated as an equal. I almost laughed before I realized he was serious.

Curbing my distaste I brought out my Burlington watch and cut a glance at it. "Very well," I smiled, "we'll be gents anyway till the balloon comes down. As business associates."

"What I wanta know is what's to perfect me?"

"Another signed paper," I said very patient. "Deposited, sealed, with the lord high sheriff or attorney general, to be opened in the event of your demise or disappearance. And you'll stay on as foreman. I should think that would give you assurance enough."

It was his turn to grin. A gray shine of satisfaction crept over the bulge of his beard stubbled cheeks. He bit off a crunch of repulsive twist dug from the clutter of a sweaty hip pocket. His look turned crafty. "An' what if I say

"The place is more more?"

"You come in on my terms or don't come in."

"I'll glared, incensed. 'If we're partners,' he whined, 'we ought to be partners straight across the board!'"

"Take it or leave it."

A child could have seen he didn't much like it, and it was plain enough he didn't like me. But I held out cards and he was shrewd enough to know this. The stumps of his teeth went to work on his cud while those pale suspicious eyes through his seething suspicions continued, greed driven, to stick and to pry.

Prosecution Witnesses in Hurst Case

By LEN TALIAFERRO

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—A government witness testified in U.S. District Court Monday that state Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst, charged with income tax evasion had run into trouble with the Internal Revenue Service before.

Kenneth B. Cogger of Little Rock, special agent for the IRS, also testified that Hurst was familiar with the "net worth method" of determining a tax — the method which the government says will prove its case.

The trial got under way Monday with the selection of a jury of 10 men, four of them Negroes, and two women.

Charles Conway, prosecuting attorney, outlined in his opening statement the government's case, into the horses, lashing them into a headlong run.

It was pretty near 10 when we picked up the lights of the county seat. The hotel dining room was closed for the night. There was an all-night hash house on the corner of Main just across from the court house. I went in and ordered while he was putting up the team. There were no other customers.

Well, I thought, so far so good. By tomorrow at this time, for one silver dollar, I stood to be down on the county's books as bonafide owner of the Running Bee, a three-man outfit boasting some considerable numbers of longhorn cattle and about 10 miles of Rio Grande shoreline.

Sure I felt good. Why wouldn't I? There were still a few wrinkles to shake out of this blanket but at least I'd made a start. To build even this much out of nothing but words.

This much? I scowled. Bluffing others a man might get by with, but the fellow who tries to kid himself is bound by the shortest road for grief. The only smart thing I'd done was discover Villalobos, and already I was down to giving half of it away.

I pushed the thought aside. This deal was strewn with imponderables. The last chip wasn't yet out of my pocket. I might get lucky. If no one had dropped a wrench in the works: two carloads of horses would be around this town someplace, waiting with papers for me to take delivery. Tomorrow I'd be in the driver's seat. A lot could happen before the river climbed out of its banks to put Villalobos into my backyard.

Giants Suffer Defeat at Hands of Colts

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Woodeshick and Warwick may sound like a vaudeville team but they amuse the San Francisco Giants not at all.

In fact, there was only gloom in the Giants' dressing room after the Colts' Hal Woodeshick and Carl Warwick finished their act at Houston Monday night.

It wasn't a standard performance. Each did something he either didn't want to do or wasn't expected to do. But when it was an over, they were the key figures in Houston's 6-5 victory over the Giants in the only game scheduled in the major leagues.

Woodeshick, a relief pitcher, gave up a home run to Willie Mays, something relief pitchers don't like to do. But he came out of it the winner.

And Warwick, a light-hitting outfielder, was inserted for defensive purposes in the eighth when Houston had a 4-2 lead. But he wound up the winning run with a two-out single in the ninth.

The loss spoiled the Giants' hopes of making up a little ground on National League-leading Los Angeles and dropped them back to a tie for second with St. Louis, five games off the pace.

The Colts, leading 4-2, appeared to be on the way to an easy victory when starter Don Nottbart ran into trouble in the eighth.

Willie McCovey led off with his 33rd homer of the season and Mays followed with a single. Woodeshick came on, making his 39th appearance of the season. A single by Orlando Cepeda and a Colt error let in the tying run, but Woodeshick struck out the last two men to end the inning.

He struck out two more in the top of the ninth before Mays crashed his 28th homer into the left centerfield stands for a 5-4 Giants lead.

Haitian Exiles

reportedly fled across the border. Haitian exile sources in Santo Domingo said at least 500 well-armed men, trained for guerrilla warfare, landed Monday at Fort Liberté, 18 miles east of Cap-Haitien, and quickly captured the towns of Fort Liberté, Derac, Trou and Limonade.

There were rumors that another force of exiles landed on Haiti's long coast in the night.

Cap-Haitien was placed on a war footing and a curfew imposed. Reports reaching here said American families were evacuated to Cap-Haitien from the U.S.-owned Dauphin Island plantation on the orders of the Duvalier government. The plantation lies near Fort Liberté, about 5 miles west of the Dominican border.

A news source in Port au Prince said Monday night little was known in public there except that a rebel force apparently was fighting the Haitian army in the north. Censors barred correspondents from sending out news by cable.

Port au Prince is 40 miles south of the invasion site.

Gen. Leon Cantave, chief of the Haitian armed forces for five months in 1957, led the invasion under the banner of the National Democratic Union. Cantave told an interviewer recently he was not interested in becoming president, only in ousting Duvalier.

Paul Verna, a former Haitian diplomat representing the National Democratic Union, said an unidentified island off the coast was used as a staging area for the invasion. Some of the invaders were identified as former Haitian army officers who had been living in Santo Domingo.

Verna said the rebels expect to form a military-civilian provisional government in north Haiti.

Cantave, a career officer, became chief of the Haitian army in December 1956 after the overthrow of President Paul E. Magloire. He quit on May 25, 1957, to avoid involvement in his country's turbulent politics, and has been in exile for six years.

Duvalier, 54, a Negro country doctor, became president of Haiti in 1956. He has survived strikes, violence and a dozen plots against his life. He gave himself an illegal second term, extending until 1967, after a rigged election in 1961.

His constitutional term expired last May 15, and underground opponents vowed to assassinate him before then. But he survived and last month his forces killed the two chief leaders of the underground, brothers Clement and Harry Barbot.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Arkansas withered in the face of fireballing Harry Fanok and took a 4-2 drubbing Monday night from Atlanta in an International League baseball game.

In other league games, Richmond trimmed Jacksonville 5-2, Syracuse clubbed Indianapolis 12-2, Rochester defeated Columbus 6-4 and Toronto split a doubleheader with Buffalo, winning the first game 8-7 and losing the second 2-1.

Fanok fanned 13 Arkansas batters and gave up only six hits. Arkansas scored in the first inning on two walks, a single and a fielder's choice. In the fourth Mickey Harrington doubled and scored on Lee Elia's single.

The Crackers wrapped up the game in the fifth inning on a walk, a hit batsman, a sacrifice, a single by Johnny Lewis, an error, another walk, a double steal by Lewis and Doug Clemens and a sacrifice fly by Joe Morgan.

Morgan doubled in the last Atlanta tally in the seventh.

Americans End Foreign Track Meet

By JIM BECKER

LONDON (AP)—One of the best and youngest American track teams split up today, with important international experience tucked away for the future and four victories in the record book.

John Pennel of Miami, Fla., who has snapped the world pole vault record six times this year, and three times in a little more than three weeks, set his latest mark, 16 feet, 10¼ inches, on Monday on the final day of the two-day meet with Britain.

It broke his mark of 16-3¾ set in the same stadium July 13, and bettered by a fraction of an inch his showing in Warsaw July 26.

The Yanks got off to a bad start on the four-meet European trip, and had to battle back to salvage a 119-114 victory over the Soviet Union in Moscow, but then they got rolling.

They took the Poles 125-83 and West Germany 141-82 before coming to London.

The U.S. coach, Payton Jordan, shuffled his forces throughout the four meets, with an eye to getting maximum international experience for the team.

"This was a real young team—half of them had never been abroad before," Jordan said. "They got better as they went along, and the young fellows got running experience that will be valuable at the Russian meet next year and the Tokyo Olympics."

Robert Hayes and Henry Carr, who hold the sprint world records, improved with every race. So did middle distance man Tom O'Hara.

About half the team members are to fly home late Tuesday. Two small groups are going to Sweden and Norway, another to Jamaica and a fourth to Romania.

The American girls, humiliated in Moscow, got better every time out.

They lost to the British girls—as they had lost at every other stop—but managed to win four of the 11 events on their program here.

In the windup of the British meet, the Americans swept to 4-2 finishes in four events and took the mile relay.

Frank Covelli won the javelin for the other American win, while the British took the 3,000-meter steeplechase, the three miles, triple jump and shot put.

Low Pay of Service Men Hurts Morale

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine enlisted men have had to turn to charity because they are unable to make ends meet on their service incomes.

An Associated Press survey of the military services and service-affiliated relief organizations indicated that the relief agencies have paid out millions of dollars to help provide military families with such needs as food and clothing.

Some families accept food surplus packages. Others, particularly those with many children, are able to draw state welfare payments.

Armed forces personnel specialists said many men take jobs in bowling alleys, filling stations, groceries and other private businesses to add to their service pay. Their wives often work.

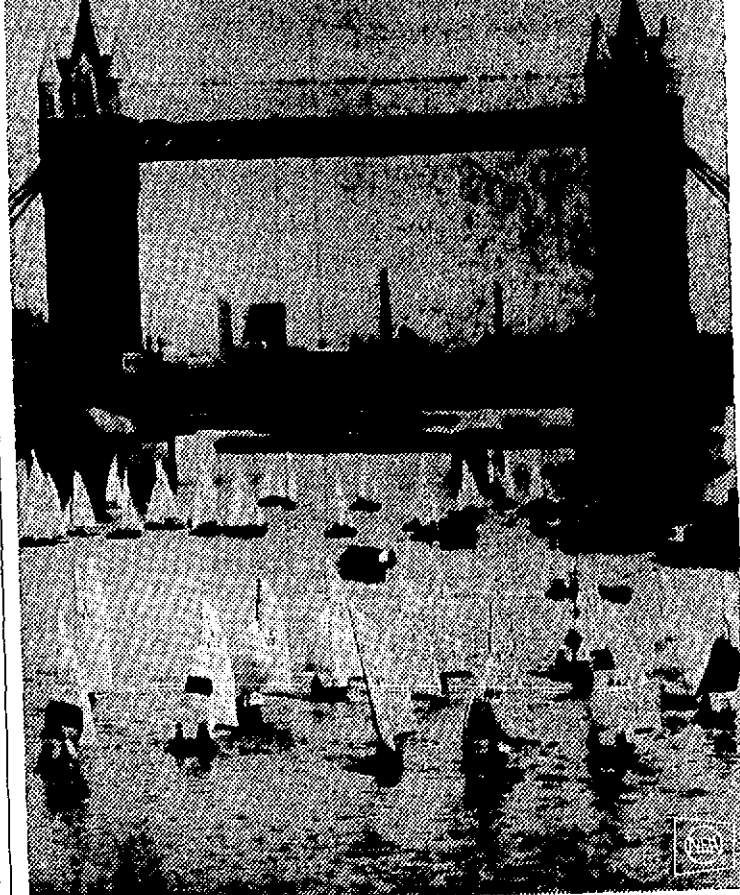

One Marine welfare officer called it "disgraceful" that senior non-commissioned officers living in Washington, D.C., area should have to take off-duty civilian jobs to keep their heads above water.

The armed services said they do not know even approximately how many of their men have been drawing some form of relief.

A hint of the scope comes from the semi-official military relief organizations, which operate on voluntary contributions. These groups were set up because regulations bar the services from using government funds to furnish emergency aid.

Army Emergency Relief gave out $4,718,661 in loans and grants last year. One-third of this went to 12,215 cases to pay for food, rent, and utilities.

The Navy Relief Society distributed $4,056,570 in 1962, about half going to avert want among Navy men, Marines, their wives

Comedian Is Serious Person in Private Life, Says Comedy Most Serious Form of Acting

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Sellers, regarded by many as Britain's dearest comic actor, looks at life with a big question mark in his eyes.

Wherever he is, he seems faintly puzzled to be there.

"I'm a very serious person in my private life — the funniest person alive," he said.

"Humor tends to make you melancholy, because comedy is the most serious form of acting. People who specialize in it become morose."

Peter is noted for his wide range of roles. He has played union leader in such films as "The Mouse That Roared," "I'm All Right, Jack," and "Heaven's Everything from a Duchess."

In his first American-made picture, "The World of Henry Orient," he portrays a fumble-fingered pianist who would rather chase married women than give concerts.

Since his parents, his grandmother and eight uncles had been in show business, it was perhaps inevitable that Sellers would get in the act, too. He started on the ground floor—as a theater sweeper.

During World War II he loaded Royal Air Force planes with bullets and bombs.

"It was sort of a dead end," he remarked. "I didn't see much future doing that on civvy street."

Self-taught, Peter developed his gift for mimicry by appearing in camp shows. Then he became a vaudeville, radio and television star before making his first picture, "Let's Go Crazy," in 1950.

"It was so bad it never was released and it bloody well never will be," he said. "I bought it out myself to make sure."

What is the real Peter Sellers like? Wearing dark-rimmed eyeglasses, and looking like a curly haired owl surprised by daylight, the actor, 37, found it a bit embarrassing to talk about himself.

He is no playboy.

"The big problem of men my age is to avoid coronary attacks and still achieve, success," he said.

"I like to be alone a lot when I'm working, because I concentrate a lot and involve myself completely. You have to. This is a highly overpaid profession; therefore one owes it to the public to give the best one can, and this requires complete dedication."

"I like driving at night in precision-made cars" (Peter has owned more than 50), photographing people in candid situations, getting plenty of sleep, I need eight or nine hours or I'm finished, watching and reading other humorists."

This is the creed he lives by: "The only way to succeed — to be happy with yourself — is

Bright Day for 2 at Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — It was a dark, dreary afternoon, but the brightest day of their lives for two old men.

"This is a bigger day than any I ever had before," said 87-year-old Elmer Flick after he and Sam Rice, 71, and the late Eppa Rixey and John Clarkson were inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame Monday.

The four, who boosted membership to 84, were elected in January by the committee on oldtimers who consider only men out of baseball for at least 20 years.

Members of the Baseball Writers Association, who consider the younger retired players, vote every other year and did not vote in 1963.

Following the morning ceremonies the Boston Red Sox beat the Milwaukee Braves 7-3 in the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game. Billy Gardner and Dick Williams hit homers for the winners, Hank Aaron for the losers.

The victory pulled the American League into a tie in the series, 10-10, with one tie.

Rice, of Ashton, Ind., was an outstanding outfielder and hitter for Washington from 1915 to 1932 and finished with Cleveland in 1934. He had 2,987 hits and a lifetime average of .322.

Flick, of Warrensville, Ohio, played from 1890 through 1910 in both major leagues. He won the American League batting championship in 1905 with a .306 average and retired with a .315 lifetime mark.

Rixey's plaque was accepted by his widow, who lives in Cincinnati, where the lanky left-hander spent most of his major league career. He won 266 games for the Reds and Philadelphia from 1912 to 1933 and died a few days after his election this year.

Clarkson, a big winner before the turn of the century, once won 53 games in a single season. He died in 1909. His plaque was accepted by a nephew, Frederick Clarkson of Meriden, Conn.

through kindness. I will do anything for anybody who asks me, but if I am told to do it, I revolt against it."

"I don't believe in an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, but I haven't quite reached the point where I can turn the other cheek."

Heard the word?
We're third*
in sales. Third!

Oh, you said that last year.

This is getting to be a regular thing with us. But what can you expect, with cars so likeable? (If you're thinking, "Who cares?", you ought to see your Pontiac dealer. He cares.)
